

Opportunities for Faculty, Staff, and Students

2023 Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine Reunion and Alumni Weekend

Join our alumni in celebrating the School of Medicine! Many Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine Reunion and Alumni Weekend events are complimentary for faculty, staff, and students to attend.

Registration is not required unless otherwise stated in the program description.

Michael M.E. Johns, M.D. Public Policy Lecture

Friday, June 2, 1:30 – 2:30 pm

Anne and Mike Armstrong Medical Education Building, Strauch Auditorium

Speaker: Kenneth Kaufman, Managing Director, Kaufman Hall

The annual lectureship, co-presented by the Dean of the School of Medicine and the Department of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery, honors Dr. Michael M.E. Johns' life-long commitment to excellence in healthcare. Dr. Johns was dean of the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine and vice president of the medical faculty from 1990-96. He also served as professor and director of the Department of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery and as associate dean for clinical affairs.

Ken Kaufman will describe how the continued effectiveness of non-profit healthcare requires the cooperation, support, and best thoughts and intentions of all who are involved in the American healthcare system, including those who provide the care, those who provide the funding, and the patients who participate in it. This event will be hosted in person and livestreamed.

Reunion Symposium

Friday, June 2, 3:00 – 4:00 pm

Anne and Mike Armstrong Medical Education Building, Strauch Auditorium

Speaker: Selwyn Vickers, M.D. '86, F.A.C.S, President & CEO, Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center

As this keynote event, hear firsthand stories of groundbreaking work taking place in medicine. In addition to our keynote speaker, we will hear from Johns Hopkins Medicine leadership. This event will be hosted in person and livestreamed.

Award and Portrait Presentations

Friday, June 2, 4:15 – 5:15 pm

Anne and Mike Armstrong Medical Education Building, Strauch Auditorium

We will recognize distinguished alumni and faculty for their outstanding achievements and honor influential members of the Johns Hopkins Medicine family through portrait presentations. This event will be hosted in person and livestreamed.

Underrepresented in Medicine and Science Reception

Friday, June 2, 7:00 – 9:00 pm

Four Seasons Hotel Baltimore, 200 International Drive, Baltimore, MD 21202

Registration required: JHU School of Medicine Underrepresented in Medicine and Science Reception Tickets, Fri, Jun 2, 2023 at 7:00 PM | Eventbrite

Connect with alumni, students, residents, faculty, and leadership who share a passion for advancing diversity and inclusion in science and medicine. This is a unique opportunity to build connections, and strengthen and celebrate our UIM/S community.

Research Updates with Dr. Amita Gupta, Dr. Edward Twomey, and Dr. Christopher J. Potter

Saturday, June 3, 11:00 – 11:45 am

Anne and Mike Armstrong Medical Education Building, Strauch Auditorium

The Primary Care Leadership Track

Saturday, June 3, 1:00 – 2:00 pm

Anne and Mike Armstrong Medical Education Building, Strauch Auditorium

Speaker: Colleen Christmas, M.D., PGF '99, Program Director, Primary Care Leadership Track, Johns Hopkins Medicine

Dr. Christmas will share information about this new track inspired by former Dean/CEO Paul Rothman and others who recognized that more should be done to promote primary care fields. The track trains physicians in primary care with leadership skills empowering them make a difference in how primary care is delivered.

Graduate Student Alumni Reception

Saturday, June 3, 7:30 pm

Four Seasons Hotel, 200 International Drive, Baltimore, MD 21202

Registration required: JHU School of Medicine Graduate Student Alumni Reception Tickets, Sat, Jun 3, 2023 at 7:30 PM | Eventbrite

Current and former School of Medicine graduate students are invited to gather for a special reception including cocktails, conversation, and hors d'oeuvres.

Visit the Johns Hopkins University Reunion and Alumni Weekend website for more information about the event.